BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Flames raced through hundreds of acres of woodland in several areas of Arkansas yesterday, destroying at least six houses and farm outbuildings.

The fires raged in Johnson, Hempstead, Yell, Sebastian and Logan counties.

Three houses near Clarksville were leveled by flames that also ate through 100 acres of forest and 500 acres of grassland. It was the second forest fire within two days in the area.

More than 300 acres of timber and 500 acres of pasture burned in Hempstead County. The fire destroyed an unoccupied house and two farm outbuildings in the DeWann community and only the struggles of volunteer firemen prevented a barn full of hay from being ignited.

Smaller fires were reported in the other counties.

Forester Howard Gray said the Johnson County fire was touched off when a trash fire got out of control.

O. R. McElroy of Coal Hill, an agricultural teacher who took members of his Coal Hill High School class to help fight the blaze near Clarksville, suffered burns on the face, arms and hands when he was cornered by the flames. He was released after treatment at a hospital. None of the students was hurt.

No other injuries were reported. Forester Buster Denton of DeWann said he believed the Hempstead County fires were caused by negligence.

Baker, Benton, Bethel, Bethell, Brazil, Canada, Cole, Cottrill, Durren, Edwards, Ehrldge, Feild, French, Gibson, Graham, Ham, Harns, Hollensworth, Howard, Kinney, McDonald, Miller, Mody, Moore, Morris, Nance, Oakes, Pardee, Pomeroy, Powell, Rogers, Shaver, Stagg, States, Sulcer, Thompson, Underhill, Van Dalsem, Wahlquist, Wimpy, Fleman.

The following were absent or did not vote: Crank, Hackett, Hopson, Horton, Howell, McCracken, Mowery.

The remaining representatives voted against the bill.

U. S. Pioneer Close to Level of the Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pioneer IV streaked close to the level of the moon today in America's most successful probe into the mysteries of the farther reaches of space.

The tracking station at Goldstone Dry Lake, in the Mojave Desert re-established radio contact at 7:33 a. m. EST and reported the gold-plated orb 192,000 miles out, with its speed down to 4,775 miles an hour.

An hour and a half later, at 9 a. m., new contacts showed a distance of 188,323 miles and a speed of 4,742 miles an hour.

The probe was still on its near-miss course past the moon toward a probable orbit around the sun where Soviet Union claims it already has a satellite.

Revised calculations indicated the space traveler would make its closest approach to the moon at 5:24 p. m., or about 237,000 miles away. Scientists gave themselves a plus-or-minus allowance of 2,000 miles on the distance computation.

At that time the Pioneer should be 239,000 miles from earth. That is more than the distance to the moon itself because of the slight error in flight angle which will carry the Pioneer farther to one side of the moon than the scientists at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration had hoped. They had aimed at something inside of 10,000 miles.

The Goldstone station, which had been out of touch with the Pioneer for more than 15 hours at the time it made contact, they expected to lose touch again around 4 p. m. as the trajectory and the earth's rotation carried the probe below the horizon.

Tuesday's final tracking report fixed the tiny space probe position at 118,852 miles. This was more than half the 220,000-mile distance to the moon and by far America's deepest penetration in space.

In its dizzying ascent into the unknown, Pioneer IV gradually slowed down. But this is customary. Approximately 17 hours after it was blasted aloft from Cape Canaveral, Fla., shortly after midnight Monday, Pioneer IV had dropped from a launching speed of 24,800 miles an hour to 5,498 miles an hour.

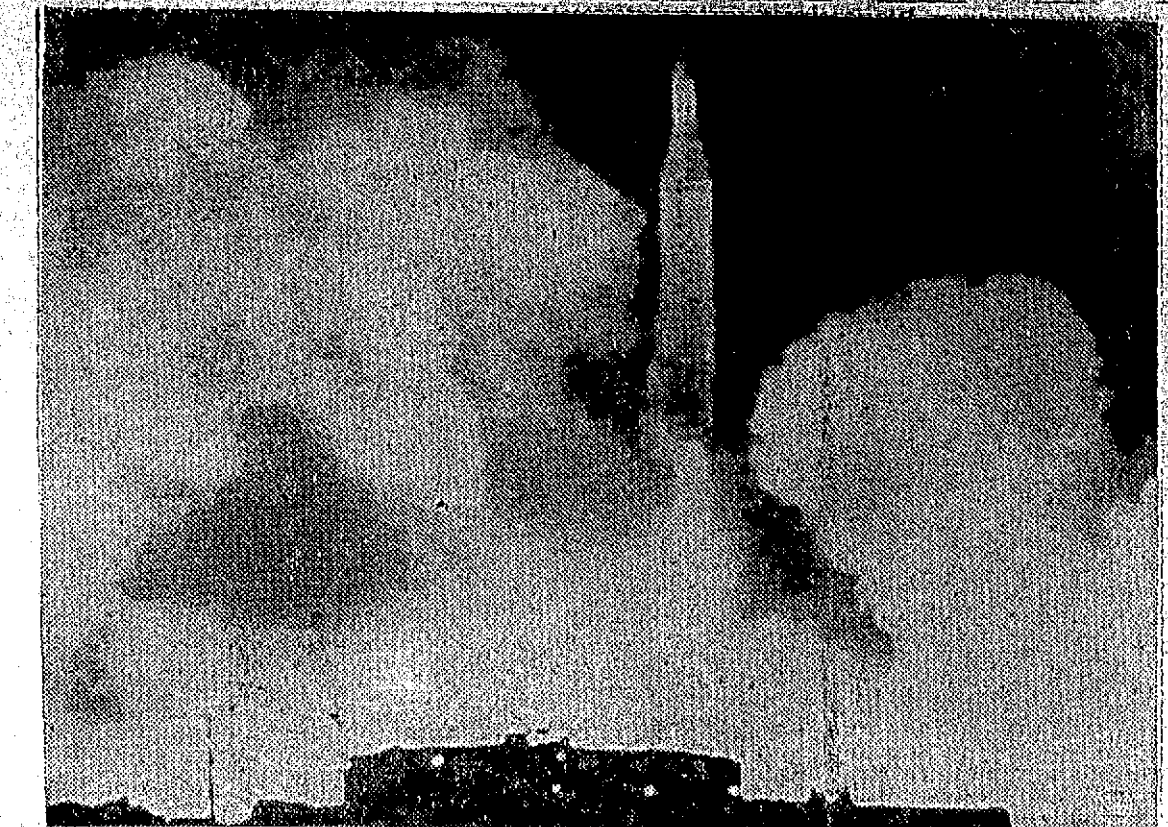

Scientists had reckoned earlier that the 13-pound orb would pass the moon at 2 p. m. today, coming within 35,000 miles of it.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration attributed the revisions to updating of preliminary calculations, not to any malfunction in the probe itself.

The key link in the tracking process is a huge radio telescope on Southern California's Mojave Desert at Goldstone Dry Lake.

There still was no estimate from NASA on just what type of orbit it expects Pioneer IV to assume around the sun, which is nearly 93 million miles from earth.

However, some fairly definite picture is expected before the probe's tiny battery-operated transmitter goes dead, probably some time late Saturday.

Legislature Attacks New L. R. Board

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock Traffic Judge Robert Laster, who figures in a controversy swirling around pinball machines, an alleged payoff, and the Little Rock School Board — is the object of a new attack in the Arkansas Legislature.

The Pulaski County delegation yesterday introduced two bills in the House to abolish, and then re-create, the court over which Laster presides. The effect would be to remove Laster from office.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus would be empowered to appoint a judge to preside over the new court, but would be prohibited from naming anyone who has held the post during the last five years.

Laster, who also is a member of the Little Rock School Board, was accused last week by two Little Rock pinball machine distributors of knowing about an alleged payoff of $2,000 to Arkansas Democrat reporter Bob Trout. Both Laster and Trout have denied the charge.

The controversy was heightened earlier yesterday when Faubus told a news conference that the payoff charge was part of an integrationist plot to oust Laster from the school board. If the plot succeeds, Faubus said, integrationist would have control of the board.

Laster has proposed outright defiance of the federal government opening the city's four public high schools on a segregated basis.

Faubus charged at his news conference that the "mastermind" behind the plot against Laster was Harry Ashmore, executive editor of the Arkansas Gazette.

He added: "The Arkansas Bar Assn. and the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce are going to move in and crush Laster, just like I'll be crushed when I get on the bottom — I get into the lowest mud of the gutter. That's why I have to fight."

Prior to the news conference, the governor had declined comment on the payoff charge.

He also took advantage of his meeting with newsmen to observe that his actions and decisions during the Little Rock school integration crisis in 1957 were not made on the basis of political expediency and were never aimed at "power and glory" for himself.

The statement was in reply to comments made by former Rep. Brooks Hays in his forthcoming book. Hays said Faubus wasn't "Speaks."

In an advance review of the book, Hays said Faubus wasn't happy with the turn of events at the time and he (Hays) didn't believe he was "happy about it today."

Mobilization of World Is Futile Says President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today it would not only be futile but disastrous for the free world to have general mobilization against possible attack.

Eisenhower told his news conference that the present 15-minute alert maintained by the Strategic Air Command is completely appropriate for world conditions.

The President was asked if he believes the strategic bombing squad could be put on an air alert with part of its planes airborne at all times.

"Not under the present circumstances," the President replied. "He said airborne bombers would be worse than useless against bombing attacks — that they are better off on the ground."

Eisenhower said the day probably will come when it will be necessary to have some planes airborne at all times to counter possible missile attacks.

Eisenhower also was asked if he believes mobilization of NATO forces should be one of the steps to be taken to insure maintaining the Western world's access to Berlin.

He replied that general mobilization would mean that each nation in the free world would become a garrison state. Such mobilization, he said, would mean keeping each nation on a basis of readiness all the time. This he said would drain civilian resources.

"I not only would be futile but the most disastrous thing we could do," the President said. "A reporter asked the President if there was any change in the tradition that the United States never strikes the first blow in warfare."

Replying in the negative, the President said, however, that the matter of self-preservation comes into this picture. He said that if we know we are under the threat of attack from missiles or planes coming in our direction we will act as quickly as is humanly possible.

State College and Gambling Bills Beaten

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two of the most highly controversial proposals before the Arkansas Legislature — a bill to legalize gambling in Garland County though local option and another to give university status to Arkansas State College at Jonesboro — went down in defeat yesterday.

Both were defeated on roll calls — the gambling bill in the Senate and the college bill in the House. There was a possibility, however, that the Arkansas State bill might be called up later on reconsideration.

Sen. Q. Byrum Hurst of Hot Springs pleaded fervently for his bill that would have permitted a local option election on the question of legalizing all forms of wagering in Garland County. But only three senators voted with him at the end of long debate, and 27 voted against the bill. The victors also backed on a clincher motion which will prevent the bill from being called up again.

Rebuffed, Hurst immediately introduced a resolution to submit a constitutional amendment on the question of legalizing gambling in Garland County. If approved by both houses of the Legislature and signed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus, the amendment would go on the ballot in the November, 1960 general election.

The debate in the House over the bill affecting Arkansas state was just as long and loud as the Senate's discussion of the gambling proposal. It saw House Speaker E. C. Fleeman leave his rostrum and take part in the discussion for the first time this session.

But Fleeman's plea for passage of the proposal could not sway minds that appeared already made up and the bill failed, 40-53.

Principal support came from East Arkansas representatives who argued that the Jonesboro College was merely trying to change its name and was ready for and deserved to have university status.

But opponents, principally friends of the University of Arkansas, argued that the state could not afford two universities.

The House also poured cold water on the State Sovereignty Commission. It rejected a bill setting up an appropriation of $60,000 a year for this group which has been largely inactive since its creation two years ago.

Pulaski Rep. J. H. Cottrill charged that the commission's "only action has been to pay an attorney, Rep. Marion Crank of Little River County, co-chairman."

Russia Plans Treaty With East Germans If Berlin Parley Fails

Macmillan Will Discuss Problems With West Allies

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today he would consult with the Western Allies on a disengagement in Central Europe.

He told Parliament in a report on his 10-day visit to the Soviet Union that he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "had a useful, and I think, constructive discussion, in private, on this matter."

Hugh Gaitskill, leader of the opposition Labor party, said the most important part of the communique on the Khrushchev-Macmillan talks was "the agreement between the two governments that there is the possibility of an area of Central Europe in which forces should be limited, both nuclear and conventional."

Gaitskill asked if Macmillan felt reasonably certain that the Soviet Union that he and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev "had a useful, and I think, constructive discussion, in private, on this matter."

Macmillan replied that "it is one of the matters that, in my view, must be further studied together with all the countries concerned and it is partly one of my purposes to take up that and other questions."

"Macmillan said he and Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd will visit Paris and Bonn next week and that he hoped to arrange a visit to Washington soon after that at President Eisenhower's invitation."

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A mid-March meeting between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was being arranged today to discuss new negotiations with the Soviet Union on the German situation.

The Soviet government has agreed conditionally to a foreign ministers conference but has stated terms which U.S. officials call unacceptable.

Diplomatic authorities indicated the United States, Britain and France probably would send counter proposals to the Soviet Union, insisting that any meeting on German issues must be wide open as to the problems which can be discussed.

The Soviet note called for a conference which would deal only with the future of West Berlin and the Soviet proposal for a peace treaty to be signed by both East and West Germany.

The Soviet government also proposed including Poland and Czechoslovakia in a conference where, as the Western powers have taken the position that German problems should be discussed and if possible settled primarily by the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France.

Officials doubt that the Polish Czech issue would prove a major obstacle to agreement on holding a meeting, but indicated the question of what should be discussed could prove an important obstacle.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty announced Tuesday that Eisenhower had asked Macmillan to come home. He put it in these words: "The President has invited the prime minister of Great Britain to come here to Washington at his convenience."

Macmillan is expected to fly here late next week. He told newsmen in London Tuesday he hoped to talk with Eisenhower by the middle of the month.

Camden, along with three other south Arkansas cities, is under orders to stop polluting the Ouachita River and its tributaries with sewage. The other cities are El Dorado, Shrickover, and Stephens.

Ike Pictures Russia Easing Berlin Demand

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today Russia's latest note on Germany indicates a lessening of rigidity of the Soviet position.

The President told a news conference the U. S. government is taking an optimistic view as possible of the outlook in the light of the Soviet note.

In that note, delivered to the Western Allies earlier this week, Russia reluctantly agreed to a foreign ministers conference on the Berlin problem. But the Kremlin specified its own terms regarding what is to be included in the discussions.

Eisenhower last week expressed pessimism about chances for a foreign ministers conference. After commenting, today, that there seems to be a lessening of rigidity in the Soviet position, the President went on to say that the Western Allies will do everything possible to come up with a constructive reply to Moscow's note.

Eisenhower said, as he has before, that this country always is willing to negotiate when there is evidence the other side is ready to bargain in good faith.

As for Soviet propaganda, Eisenhower cautioned Americans against being taken in whenever the Kremlin cries Wolf. We must not allow ourselves to get frightened when the Russian leaders make propaganda threats, he added.

Khrushchev Has Reached Point of No Return

By CARL HARTMAN
LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev said today the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the West fails to come to terms on an all-German settlement.

Khrushchev accused the West of refusing his proposals on Germany without proposing any alternatives "that a normal human intelligence can agree to."

The Western Allies have refused to recognize Premier Otto Grotewohl's Red East German regime, which never has faced a free election, as a legal government. The West insisted they would not deal with it on Berlin controls that the Russians propose to give up this spring.

The Soviet leader insisted in a 20-minute speech that his government wants only peace—and needs peace to carry out its seven-year economic expansion program.

Khrushchev had just arrived for consultation with his East German Communist allies and a visit to Leipzig's trade fair.

Speaking before a big crowd in a rain, he insisted all the Soviet Union wants is peace.

"However much these people rage," he said of Western leaders, "nothing will come of it."

A crowd which the East German Communist radio estimated at "tens of thousand" heard the brief speech without marked enthusiasm. They did cheer an applause, though, when he spoke of peace.

"In the name of the Soviet Union," he said, "I declare that those people should be reasonable who are responsible for signing a peace treaty. The United States, England, France and all nations want peace. Now the governments should listen to the voice of their people, and the peoples say we want peace, peace, peace."

Khrushchev declared that "only lunatics can seek solutions by war."

He made that statement at an airport near East Berlin after arriving from Moscow, where he and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan wound up talks on cold war issues Tuesday.

Khrushchev responded to a welcome from East Germany's Premier Otto Grotewohl and Communist party leader Walter Ulbricht. Officially he is here to visit the trade fair in Leipzig, 110 miles away.

Khrushchev told the welcoming party that a peace treaty with Germany is now "most necessary." His words were relayed by the official East German ADN news agency.

He said his talks with Macmillan were fruitful. Naturally the viewpoints were not the same but in any case each now knew better the standpoint of the other, he said.

By RONALD THOMSON
MOSCOW (AP) — Western diplomats in Moscow consider that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has reached a point of no return in his German policy.

British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, these diplomats say, learned on his visit that the Soviet premier is in a deadly earnest about carrying out his proclaimed policy to write a separate peace treaty with East Germany and give the East German Communists control of the Allied supply lines to West Berlin.

But Macmillan made it equally clear to Khrushchev that the Western Allies will not budge an inch without "provision for proper alternatives," a British source said.

Some diplomats believe the Western Allies face one of the toughest periods of postwar diplomacy in the weeks ahead.

Four Indicted for Bank Robbery

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Four men were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday for the $22,688 robbery of the Bank of Weiner Feb. 2.

Named in the indictment were James W. Hand 19, Lee A. Chawick 26, Joe Mullins 25, and Mullins brother, Johnny Mullins 16. Hand is a resident of Otwell, the other three of Leachville.

The FBI said the three older men held up the bank and young Mullins drove them from Leachville to near Fisher before the holdup.

Need of TVA Curb Cited by Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders said today that President Eisenhower shares their view that new curbs should be voted on the Tennessee Valley Authority.

House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana gave that report after the group held its week 15 meeting with Eisenhower at the White House.

Halleck said the government now has an investment of 1 1/2 billion dollars in TVA power production and no interest is being paid.

He said the GOP group, including Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, was in agreement that TVA should pay the principal of the government investment on an annual basis, a limit should be established for expansion, and adequate control established on issuance of TVA bonds.

Halleck and Dirksen said there also was discussion of the bill which would allow professional persons such as doctors and lawyers to claim tax exemptions up to $2,500 a year on money put aside for retirement purposes.

a major international crisis in which errors on either side could stumble the world into war," said one Western ambassador.

Another Western envoy said he had advised his government several times that there is a very serious danger of war in the political conflict over Germany's future.

One ambassador felt the Soviet agreement to attend a foreign ministers conference lasting two or three months offered a "bare chance" of postponing the May 27 deadline set by the Soviets for turning over to the East Germans full control of the Berlin supply routes.

One of the dangers in the situation, according to informed diplomats, is that both East and West have landed themselves in "pre-emptive" positions over Germany.

As far as the U.S.S.R. is concerned, the position on Germany is believed to be a personal policy of Khrushchev.

A ranking Communist diplomat was quoted as saying: "The Soviet program on Germany and Berlin is Khrushchev's personal policy to the same extent as his drives to boost corn production and to reshuffle industrial management in this country."

British Minister Arrives in London

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan arrived home today from his 10 day visit to the Soviet Union smiling and cheerful.

Between the Faroes and Iceland there is no regular service, so he had to go to Scotland and board a fishing smack bound for Thorshavn, the Faroe capital.

Kirsten met him at Thorshavn. Last Saturday they left for Copenhagen.

Tuesday morning they will set out for the last lap of the love race.

Mrs. Jones Honored With Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Marilyn Lee, whose marriage to Charles Jones was an event of Monday night, was complimented at a party and miscellaneous shower on Thursday afternoon at the Pleasant Hill Community and club house. Hostesses were Mrs. Ira Tyree, Mrs. Samuel Jones, Mrs. Watson Trevillion, Mrs. John Harrison, Mrs. Hoyt Griggs and Mrs. J. P. McCain.

The honored guest wore a copper shantung sheath dress from her trousseau and was presented a corsage of yellow jonquils by Mrs. Glenn Jones.

A yellow color scheme was carried out in the decorations. The honoree's many lovely gifts were displayed on a table covered with a yellow cloth. On each end of the table were potted yellow chrysanthemums and in the center was a bride doll wearing a flower hat of yellow blossoms and surrounded with white and yellow net.

Games were enjoyed during the afternoon and prizes were won by Mrs. George Sullivan, Mrs. J. P. McCain, Mrs. D. O. Montgomery and Mrs. Samuel Jones.

The serving table was covered with a white cut work cloth and centered with yellow jonquils and greenery in a yellow container, flanked by burning yellow tapers in crystal holders. Pretty party napkins also carried out the yellow motif. Iced drinks and cookies were served to 30 guests.

Representatives Oren Harris, Dale Alford Pay Relatives Full Amount the Law Allows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay of the office staffs of the Arkansas members of Congress varies widely, but the House payroll for January shows two Arkansas aides drawing the maximum salary allowed by the House.

Willie Harris, first assistant to his brother, Rep. Oren Harris, and Claude Carpenter, chief aide to Rep. Dale Alford (D-Ark.), were listed as receiving the top salary for a House aide — $13,000 a year.

Willie Harris who has been an employee of his brother's office for 18 years, or ever since Oren Harris came to Congress.

On the Senate side the top salary for an aide is $10,500 a year, but whether either Arkansas senator pays any individual that much is not public information. The Senate does not release the payrolls of its members. House payrolls, on the other hand, are made public.

Rep. J. W. Trimble (D-Ark.) employs Mrs. Trimble on his staff and has for the 14 years he has been in the House. Her salary now is $7,650 yearly.

Mrs. Catherine D. Norrell, wife of Rep. W. F. Norrell (D-Ark.), is employed by the House Appropriations committee as a clerk-stenographer. Her salary is $5,000 yearly.

Arkansas two senators would not make their payrolls public but both Sen. John L. McClellan (D) and J. W. Fulbright (D) said they employ no relatives.

Fulbright said he had no objection to making public his payroll but that since it is Senate policy not to do so he feels that the Senate should come from the Senate, rather than from him.

McClellan said anyone from Arkansas can inspect his list; that salaries he pays are in line with those in other offices.

Both senators said their pay roll totals are well below the total they are permitted to spend.

Each member of Congress is an employer as far as his own staff is concerned. Within limitations he may hire whom he pleases and pay what he chooses.

On the House side limitations are that a member may not employ more than eight on his staff, may not pay his top aide more than $7,000 annually "base pay" and may not exceed a total of $17,500 base.

The term "base" pay is somewhat misleading since to this base must be added various across-the-board and percentage pay increases that have been made since the war.

A total base of $17,500 translates into about 34,000 gross, depending on how the House member divides up his office allowance. Similarly a $7,000 base translates into $13,300 yearly.

Arkansas House members generally have from three to five persons on their payrolls; the senators have eight or nine each.

The January payroll of the House shows that Arkansas new House member, Rep. Alford, had two persons on his payroll that month — Claude Carpenter at the top salary of $13,300 and Mrs. Gertrude F. Gullatt at $523 per month. Since then, however, he has added one employee, Miss Ann Davenport.

Rep. E. C. Gathings (D) has four regular office employees and each month hires a different young man from his district for a month, his purpose being to provide a bit of Washington experience for as many boys as possible.

Rep. Wilbur Mills (D), Norrell and Trimble likewise have four regular office employees. Harris has three.

Arkansas senators have an office pay allowance of about $40,000 base annually. This would translate into something around $90,000. Out of this fund they also must pay for certain office equipment.

Admission to a five assistants to senators are paid $10,500 yearly although a senator doesn't have to have such an employee.

Both Arkansas senators have such aides, McClellan's top assistant is Ralph Matthews; Fulbright's is John Erickson.

The House payroll for January showed for the Arkansas offices:

Alford — Claude Carpenter $10,500 (not a full month); Gertrude F. Gullatt $523.

Gathings — Fred T. Ward $838; Parker Westbrooke $364; Helen Brown $42; Mary Eberhart $463; Charles W. Watson $37.

Harris — Willie Harris $11,112; Christina Christie $906; Seth Collins $38.

Mills — Mary Bassett $1043; Doll Webb $608; Avinell Stevens $31; Sam Boyce $415.

Norrell — Janice Dilday $51; Hazel J. Coile $761; Katharine Shunk $731; Phoebe Wilkinson $609.

Trimble — Carl Whitlock $32; Mary Ellen McGill $732; Ruth M. Trimble $938; Thelma Bourland Green $604; Gertrude Reen $106.

Mrs. Ike Will End 3-Week Vacation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mamie Eisenhower admitted a little homesick, will conclude a three-week Arizona vacation this week, and fly home aboard the President's plane, "Columbine III."

The White House said Mrs. Eisenhower wasn't making a special trip to pick up the First Lady as it did last year, though.

The plane was reported undergoing its semiannual servicing at Lockheed's factory near Burbank, Calif. It will stop for Mrs. Eisenhower at Phoenix, Ariz., on its way back.

The First Lady and her sister, Mrs. G. Gordon Moore, have been relaxing at the Maine, Chance health and beauty resort near Phoenix since Feb. 15.

The White House said they may stop off at Denver on the way home to visit their 80-year-old mother, Mrs. John S. Doud.

Last year, much criticism was raised when the President made a 3,000-mile detour in the Columbine III from his vacation spot in Thomasville, Ga., to fly Mamie to Phoenix. Although the President didn't go back for her, he sent the plane to pick her up.

Missing Family Mystery Solved in Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A search for the president of the Kankakee Motor Coach Co., his wife and nine children has ended.

Victor Curtis wouldn't talk with newsmen about treatment he received in Illinois or why he put his family aboard a 37-passenger air-conditioned bus and drove to Tampa, but Mrs. Curtis had plenty to say.

Sheriff's deputy Daniel O'Loughlin of Kankakee County said authorities put out an alert Feb. 19, when the Curtis family and bus disappeared.

Mrs. Curtis spoke of telephoned threats to her and her husband. Even our children have been threatened," she said.

"We were to aggressive. We took the bus line and I guess we took business that didn't belong to us."

of the budget bill, said the $80,000 appropriation did not mean that much would be spent.

The vote was 68-14, with 75 votes headed for passage.

In all, the House okayed appropriation bills totaling well over 100 million dollars, the bulk of which included state and federal funds for the Welfare Department.

But it rejected a budget of $97,000 to print an up-to-date set of Arkansas statutes and it turned down an annual budget of $105,480 for Civil Defense.

Opposition to the Civil Defense bill apparently centered around pay increases included in the proposal and these probably will be eliminated before the bill comes up for reconsideration.

Among new bills introduced yesterday was one imposing heavy penalties against persons making bomb threats. Offered by Rep. Clay Brizzell of Conway County, the bill calls for fines up to $5,000 and imprisonment up to five years for persons convicted in such cases.

Morrilton High School, in the county seat of Conway county, recently received a bomb threat

Americans Leave La Paz for Safety

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Some 700 Americans in La Paz gathered outside the U.S. Embassy today in fear that the funeral for a victim of Bolivia's anti-U.S. riots might lead to further violence.

State Department spokesman Lincoln White said in Washington that Americans in the capital, including the U.S. Embassy staff, had been moved to the suburbs for better protection by the Bolivian army.

Reinforced police patrolled the tense mountain capital to avert any repetition of Monday's angry outbreak over an article in Time magazine, when rioters stoned the U.S. Embassy and burned an American flag.

A 15-year-old boy killed in the first eruption was to be buried today.

The riots claimed a second victim Tuesday night. Police fired to break up a group of demonstrators trying to rush the apparently deserted U.S. Embassy building. A Bolivian dentist standing nearby was killed by a stray bullet.

The riots followed circulation of Time's current Latin-American edition, quoting a U.S. Embassy official as saying jokingly that Bolivia's economic woes could be cured by spilling oil on the country. The embassy denied that any official had made such a suggestion.

In New York, Henry R. Lucas, editor in chief of Time, expressed regret that a story in his magazine had "been the occasion for expressions of unfriendliness toward the United States." He said the story "was a factual analysis of Bolivia's economic difficulties."

Lucas statement made no mention of the quote about spilling oil on Bolivia.

Military at Little Rock Are Accused

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military authorities were accused today of cooperating with school segregationists at Little Rock Air Force Base, Ark. and at Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

The accusation was made before a House Labor Sub committee by Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mitchell said that at Little Rock $800,000 of federal money was spent on a new public school for children of civilian and military personnel at its air base.

Negro children, he said, are barred from this school on grounds the school is off the air base and subject to local segregation laws.

At Redstone, he said, 21 acres of land were transferred to the Huntsville, Ala. School District last year for a segregated elementary school there.

Mitchell said any aid to education program should include a proviso that no money would be available for school buildings refusing to comply with the Supreme Court anti-segregation ruling.

Rep. John Brademas (D-Ind.) took issue with Mitchell's insistence that any federal aid to schools program should exclude segregationists. He said it might be necessary to make some sort of compromise in order to get an aid bill through at all.

"I happen to be a member of the NAACP," Brademas, a white congressman told Mitchell, who is a Negro, "but you're putting your friends in the position where there won't be any schools to desegregate."

Detroit Police Slowdown Rolling

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit's police traffic-ticketing slowdown strike gave signs of tapering off today.

There has been a three-day demonstration against orders for integration of two-man scout car crews.

Officials blamed the slowdown on issuing traffic violation tickets on what they called a few "extremists" among white traffic duty officers of the 4,500-man force.

Commissioner Herbert W. Hart, declaring racial integration of the force was "here too stay," ordered compliance or resignation.

The Detroit Police Officers Assn. condemned the strike as a violation of duty oath. It pledged support to the integration steps.

Headquarters reported a big increase in the number of ticketed motorists on late shifts Tuesday over the warning by Hart.

THE STORY: John Simmon, salesman for one of Buckey's competitors, gives Jim Bennett private detective, $500 if he will not expose why defuncting grinding wheels are being made by the Buckey firm.

IX

I had a lonely dinner at a quiet little restaurant off the square. When I returned to the Maple Inn there was a message for me to call Mr. Mater. A female answered in a very young sounding voice. I said, "This is Mr. Bennett. Mr. Mater left word for me to call him."

"Just a moment, please," I heard her call. "Daddy, in a muffled voice, and then a man's voice came on the wire, 'Bennett?'"

"Yes, sir."

"I wonder if you would be kind enough to drop out here to my home?"

He gave me an address and directions for getting there and added, "I'm sorry to bother you this evening, but I did want your report of that tragic accident. Mr. Ackerman is here with me."

He lived far out, on the edge of town, in a section of old, dilapidated houses.

Light from a brass lamp lantern over the double-screened door gleamed on the polished balustrade of a curving stairway just inside the entrance. I lifted a heavy brass knocker and let it fall.

A young girl appeared behind the screen. I guessed her to be 17 or 18, no more. She was small and dark and wore black knee-length Bermuda shorts, a short-sleeved white blouse open at the throat, and black ballet slippers. Her hair was cut short and her brown eyes looked huge in her small dark face. There was a friendly glint in her eyes and a quirk to her lips. "I expect you're Mr. Bennett," she said.

"That's right."

"Jim Ginny Masters. Please come in." She opened the screen door and led me down the hall and across a long living room.

"Daddy," she called, "Mr. Bennett is here."

Logan Masters, looking more frail than ever in a tan sport shirt, got up from a deep leather chair beside a coffee table and shook my hand. Behind him Howard Ackerman arose from a divan. Dorothy Donovan sat on the divan holding a pencil and notebook. She looked very cool and lovely in a frosty pale green sleeveless dress. I was surprised to see her. She smiled at me and nodded. Ackerman smiled, too.

"Thanks for coming, Bennett," Masters said in his quiet, dry voice. He smiled at the girl. "Ginny, I assume you have introduced yourself to Mr. Bennett?"

"Yes, Daddy."

Masters put an arm around the girl's slim waist and pulled her to him affectionately. "Our youngest daughter, Bennett, the last little bird at home. Her sisters have all flown the nest."

"Am I dismissed? Ginny pretended to pout.

"That is correct," Masters said. "Scout, child."

She scooted, after smiling at me once more, and closed the door behind her. Masters nodded at the table. "Help yourself, Bennett."

"Thank you. I built a modest bourbon on the rocks while Ackerman and Masters resumed their seats. Holding my glass, I sat in a chair opposite the divan. From an open screened window a soft breeze caressed my face, carrying with it Dorothy Donovan's perfumed scent.

Masters said to me, "You've met Mrs. Donovan?"

"Yes, I nodded and smiled at her."

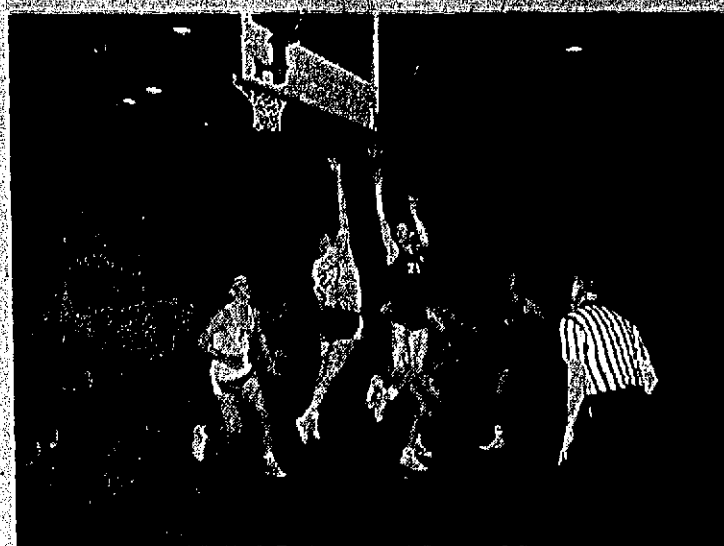

Masters cleared his throat. "Ah — Mr. Ackerman suggested that we take Mrs. Donovan into our confidences. As his secretary, she is aware of your true profession and of your mission here. I hope you don't object?"

I objected, but managed a smile and shrugged. That made three persons who now knew my real mission in Maple Hill. It was getting a little crowded.

"Tonight," Masters said, "we would appreciate any comments you would care to make about your visit to Toledo and the circumstances surrounding the accident which resulted in that poor man's death."

"I must tell you, I said, "that I am not approaching this matter from a technical viewpoint, because I am not qualified to do so. However, if what Mr. Ackerman has told me is true, a Buckey employee, or some other person, is somehow causing the breakage. I am proceeding on

Smackover Wins District Title

SMACKOVER Buckaroos came through in the clutch last night to edge the Magnolia Panthers 37 to 36 in the district title contest. Barker, the star of the Bucks, is No. 21, shooting for the basket. He made a total of 28 points. Going up with him to block the shot is Magnolia's Johnson, No. 27, while A. White of Magnolia, No. 23 and at right, No. 45, Barbaree of Smackover look on.

Scouting the District Winner

COACH Clair Bates and assistant Jimmy Tate, right, of Van Buren were on hand last night, scouting both Magnolia and Smackover. His team will tangle with the winner, Smackover, in the state tournament the first game.

assumption. "When do you expect some results? Masters asked.

"That's hard to say, sir. May be never."

He sighed and shook his head.

New Rutgers Head Has Rare Qualities

United Press International
DR. MASON W. GROSS
New President Rutgers University

Dr. Mason W. Gross, new president of Rutgers University, is a rare educational compound of deep scholarship seasoned with ready wit.

Both qualities gained him high popularity at Rutgers, the New Jersey state university, where he has taught philosophy since 1946.

To his students, the tall professor with the clipped, near-British voice was someone who could make the world of ideas suddenly spring to life.

"The listener is too busy thinking to write," one former student remarked of Gross, lecturer.

Gross, 47, was named 16th president of Rutgers Feb. 28. With characteristic candor, he said afterwards he was a "little bit appalled" by the responsibility of heading the 193 year old institution.

Born in Hartford, Conn., on June 3, 1913, Gross has an impressive list of scholastic attainments.

"Do you have any definite plans?"

"Yes. In the morning I want someone to take me through the plant. I want to see all operations, and to observe as many employees as possible as they work, particularly in the departments where you feel the product could be most easily damaged."

"I'll do it personally," Ackerman said.

Dorothy Donovan's pencil moved swiftly. Apparently she was taking it all down.

"It could be a chain thing," I said. "If an inspector is deliberately passing faulty wheels, it might mean that he's working with an accomplice in another department, maybe in finishing, or on down the line. We could maybe uncover a whole string of guilty people. But I hope it's not as complicated as that. I think it's a one — or two-man operation."

ments behind him. He attended the University of Aberdeen and received Bachelor and Master of Arts degrees from Jesus College of Cambridge University.

He went on to get a Doctorate in philosophy from Harvard University.

He was hired as an assistant professor and assistant to the dean of art and sciences at Rutgers in 1946. In 1949, he became a full professor.

Television viewers saw the lighter side of Gross personality when he appeared regularly on two quiz programs, "Two For The Money" (CB) and "Think Fast" (ABC).

Gross comes to a hard task as successor to former President Lewis Webster Jones, who resigned to head the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Gross served in the Army Air Corps of three years, reaching the rank of captain. In 1940, he married Julia Kernan. They live in fashionable Rumson, with their four children: Ellen, 17, Kitty, 14, Charles 11 and Thomas 6.

The first school of forestry in the United States was founded at Arkansas A&M College, then Monticello A&M, at Monticello.
